

CHS Bio

Chris Seger - "Chris Craft Chris"

1955

Current

Chris says his best moments were girl watching on the 3rd floor.

Did he date anyone particular? He said she'd probably prefer to remain anonymous. However, we doubt it. Chris's first kiss was with Marcia Rodd. Marcia, being a movie star, kissed some great actors on screen, but said that nobody could kiss like Chris.

Chris was certainly no dummy. He graduated from Yale in 1960, then entered the Navy as an Ensign and completed an underwater swimmers school as part of the Navy's explosive ordnance disposal program. If that was not scary enough, he then trained in ordnance disposal for conventional and nuclear weapons. After 4 years in the Navy, he obtained his Masters Degree in Marketing and Finance from Columbia University in 1966.

Chris then moved to Houston and began work in the petroleum services where he held several top level management and marketing positions. In 1988 he founded Record Masters of Houston specializing in medical records management. The company went from one lonely employee to thirty-five when he sold the company in 1997. He retired from active business but has been consulting, researching, and writing in the interim.

Chris met his wife in Houston and was married in 1968. They have three children and two grandkids.

Chris as a potential Playgirl Magazine HUNK of the month in the 1960's

His wildest accomplishment? Running with the bulls in Pamplona and drinking with Ernest Hemingway the same day in 1959!

Once a Navy man, always a Navy an. Here is a picture of Chris Craft Chris sailing a 60-foot yacht off of Oxnard, California in August 2003 (he wishes it was his!) and a picture of Chris in diving gear.

Happy sailing Chris!

See ya at the 50th!

Chris with Ernest Hemingway pointing in the background. The camera is focused on Mr. Hemingway (1959).